

Understanding Your ZYTO Reports

After your scan, a detailed report is generated, offering insights into your biological preferences. This data highlights which Virtual Items your body responds to most coherently, guiding you and your practitioner in choosing nutritional supplements and wellness services tailored to you.

By leveraging this information, you can take a personalized, proactive approach to maintaining and improving your health.

Biocommunication: A New Era of Wellness Decisions

Wellness challenges can be overwhelming, but ZYTO scans provide clarity by offering a tailored understanding of how your body works. Gaining insight into your biological coherence empowers you to make confident, informed choices, reducing stress and bringing peace of mind. With this newfound perspective, you can take meaningful steps forward for yourself or your loved ones.

How ZYTO Biocommunication Works

ZYTO biocommunication is a dynamic exchange of information between your body and a computer. Think of it as the computer “asking questions” and your body “answering.” The ZYTO software runs an energetic signature, called a Virtual Item, representing actual items like supplements, organs, and body systems.

As each Virtual Item is run, your body’s galvanic skin response (GSR) — an energetic measurement — is recorded. Positive or negative shifts in your energetic posture determine your biological coherence, helping you make data-driven decisions.

The Biocommunication Revolution

Biocommunication is a groundbreaking way to gather wellness insights. This innovative technology allows practitioners to develop individualized wellness strategies, saving time and money while providing a clearer picture of your health needs.

Your ZYTO Experience: What to Expect

ZYTO’s biocommunication software connects to your body through the ZYTO Hand Cradle, an FDA-cleared Class II medical device. Simply rest your hand on the cradle while the software gathers your GSR data. The scan is quick, safe, and suitable for both adults and children.

“Each person’s uniqueness demands a personalized approach to their individual wellness needs. Using ZYTO technology to know a person’s biological coherence helps me to understand a fuller picture of wellness. The ZYTO system does this in an affordable and highly cost-effective manner.”

W. Lee Cowden, MD, MD(H)
